Season 4 of Lillee Jean TALKS! Live Recap & Awards

New York, NY, December 30, 2024 – New York City Actress Lillee Jean Trueman has wrapped up Season 4 of her hit web-series, "Lillee Jean TALKS! Live". Since it launched in 2020, the show has won the prestigious Gothamite Film Festival Award (best webseries) and Pageant Film Festival Award (best podcast) for shows featuring Donny Most.

It featured a number of well-known celebrity guests, some of whom were returning from previous seasons, including actor and singer Donny Most, as well as Neil D'Monte, storyboard artist, writer, producer, and musician, famous for his Batman v. Superman works, as well as serving as a session drummer for the Smashin' Pumpkins.

Newer guests included VFX, CGI, concept artist and voice actor Paul Reeves (Grand Theft Auto), award-winning actor Eric Schumacher, well known for his role as Doc Holiday in Tombstone Rashomon as well as his ground-breaking work with his production company, Seelie Studios, LLC.

Lillee Jean's straightforward interview style allowed guests of such magnitude, as Emmy nominee and award-winning director John Callas, to reveal exciting new projects. Aside from mixing up her entertainment line-up with celebrity interior designer David White, actor and writer Jon Simon (Front Men TV airs on Amazon Prime), Trueman introduced Zoee, country music sensation from Nashville Tennessee, to her legion of fans, as well as introduced them to astronomer David Lee Summers, who turned his love of space into becoming an award-winning science fiction author.
